WATCH SNOWDEN, FIGHTER.
SALES TAX COMING?
BELGIUM LAUGHS LAST.
ONE RICH CITY.

Phillip Snowden, fighting chancellor of the British exchequer, possesses qualities that England needs.
"Come the world against us, England yet shall stand."

That is Snowden's challenge as he announces taxes enormously increased, a slash in the dole, in the pay of teachers, army, navy and police, higher taxes on beer, gasoline, tobacco.

Those that dance must pay the piper. It was expensive dancing for this world during that big war.

Even we, who didn't start the dancing or hire the band, must pay
our part of the bill.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania,
high on the Republican financial committee, demands a sales tax to produce two thousand millions annual revenue. He is opposed by merchants, and some of the little people who realize that it would make them contribute to the expense of government without realizing it.

Apparently, however, a sales tax is coming. The government must meet its expenses one way or another.

Who laughs last, laughs best. Belgium had a sad time when the war started. You remember about "not more than one lump of sugar, one small pat of butter, etc., for Belgium's sake." Now Belgium finds herself prosperous in the middle of the world's slump, her bonds above
par, with a high "gold coverage" of 66 per cent of her notes. Her antiquated industrial plants that were destroyed by Germans have been replaced at Germany's expense, with new modern plants of greater capacity.

The head of the Belgium bank,
Paul Van Zeeland, considers Belgium's economic status "the most secure in all Europe."

New York City, in spite of alleged extravagance, is still rich, with good credit. Last year it spent

PUBLIC SCHOOL NURSE RENAMED

Miss Elizabeth Steer Re-
appointed By Board
Of Education

Miss Elizabeth Steer was reappointed Salem public school health
nurse by the board of education
Thursday night.

Miss Steer is now serving her second year as school nurse and is also employed by the board of health as municipal nurse.

The board discussed with E. S.
Kerr, superintendent, plans for the opening of schools next Monday.
Last minute details were worked out in anticipation of record-breaking enrollment of students.

Permission was granted J. M.
Kelley for use of Reilly athletic stadium for a softball series next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

2 GUNMEN DENY GUILT IN DEATH OF GEO. SCHMIDT

Police Chief T. W. Thompson Quizzes Pair
Held In Akron

Two Massillon gunmen, arrested
in Akron for the holdup of a drug store and who are reported to have confessed a series of robberies in Youngstown, Canton and Akron,
were questioned by Police T. W.
Thompson Thursday afternoon in connection with the slaying Tuesday of George Schmidt, Salem butcher.

Pair Exonerated
Thompson went to Akron to quiz
the youths Thursday after receiving word of their arrest. He reported today that both were able to exonerate themselves from any connection with the Schmidt slay-ing.

The two men, 21 and 26 years old,
were arrested and charged with the slaying.

WATSON OPPOSES TAX PROPOSALS

Administration Involved in Complications As Floor Leader Takes Stand on Revisions

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The administration position on tax revision became involved in complications today when Republican Floor Leader Watson of the senate emerged from the White House and announced he would oppose any tampering with taxation.

Watson said he was opposed to the tax plans of Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, and Representative Bacharach, Republican,
New Jersey, as well as to all other proposals to increase government revenue at the coming session of congress.

"I think Uncle Andy can take care of the treasury situation," he said, referring to Secretary of Treasury Mellon.

Pastor To Attend Lutheran Meeting

Rev. B. E. Rutzy, pastor of the Emmanuel Lutheran church, will leave Sunday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he will attend the annual conference of the Eastern District
of the American Lutheran church synod.

The conference will open at noon
Monday and close Friday night. A total of 148 ministers from Canada and 12 states are expected to attend the event.

Rev. Rutzy is a member of the committee in charge of the annual president's report. Following the conference he will take a three weeks tour of eastern states and Canada, returning to Salem on October 1.

G. R. Wanamaker, Damascus,
member of the Salem church, will replace Rev. Rutzy in the pulpit
during the latter's absence.

MIDGET FOOTBALL CLASH SCHEDULED

Stores to Show New Fall
Merchandise, Other
Displays

Preliminary plans have been made for a Fall Festival Friday and Saturday, Oct. 2 and 3, in which retail merchants and the American Legion post of Salem will cooperate.

This festival is to be patterned
after the homecoming festivals
which were so popular in Salem
every fall until a few years ago,
when they were abandoned for other events. Merchants will take advantage of the occasion to display the new fall merchandise.

Prizes For Exhibits

In the stores, also, will be exhibits
of vegetables and farm produce,
fruits, pies, cakes, quilts, embroidery and other creations of the needle. Practically every merchant is expected to offer prizes for these exhibits, which in former years attracted thousands of people to Salem.

Entertainment features for the two days will be provided by the Legion, whose committee is working in conjunction with the trade extension committee of the Salem
business bureau, President R. S.
McCulloch of the latter organization announced today. A. P. Morris is chairman of the Legion committee and A. Hansell of the merchants committee.

One of the features will be a night football game Friday night
between teams of midgets. Sheen's Bulldogs will represent Salem and an effort is being made to book the famous Kent Bearcats to oppose them.

Drum Corps Expected

Legion drum corps from several cities are expected here Saturday

Settle County Estate Of Former Sinclair Oil
Co. Executive

LISBON, Sept. 11.—The Exchange Trust Co., of Tulsa, Okla., executor under the will of the estate of the late E. Rogers Kemp,
an executive of the Sinclair Oil Co.,
who died at his home at East Hampton, Long Island, N. Y., June 9, 1922, has filed a copy of the will with Probate Judge Lodge Riddle here for probate. The text of the will is in printed form, and is one of the largest records of the kind ever filed here.

The schedule shows that Nettie
and Elizabeth Miller of Salem, cousins of the decedent, are heirs, and that at the time of his death, Kemp
owned part of lot one, Keen's addition, Salem, valued at $3,750. It is further shown by the schedule that the value of the real estate at the time of the death of Mr. Kemp was $198,508.33 and the personal property had a valuation of $1,153,280.45,
which included 21,000 shares of the stock of the Sinclair Oil company.
Attorney Walter W. Beck is representing the Exchange Trust Co., in county.

Three Bands to Play For Fair Next Week

LISBON, Sept. 11.—Three bands
have been engaged by Secretary H.
E. Marsden for the 82nd county fair that opens here for four days
and nights next Tuesday.

Music for the fair Tuesday night,
Wednesday and Wednesday night
will be furnished by the Lisbon band, and the East Liverpool city
band will play Thursday morning,
afternoon and evening. Friday afternoon and evening the Lisbon
High school band will play.

Trains transporting King's western rodeo will arrive here Sunday morning and the first rodeo will be given Tuesday night.

A full list of entries for the races
will be announced by George Rogers,
in charge of the speed events,
Monday morning.

IDLE MEN, IDLE MONEY

AN EDITORIAL

Within the next few days the Citizens Savings bank will release
to its depositors in Salem more than $134,000, representing 25 per cent of the total deposits when the bank was closed last April. It is safe to assume that a large part of this money will be placed in circulation, with a resultant stimulus to business. Most of it not so disposed of will, or should be deposited in the Salem banks.

Payment of this large dividend should reassure all depositors
of the stability of the Citizens bank, and announcement by bank officials that every cent is expected to be paid upon complete liquidation of assets, justifies perpetuation of confidence among our characteristically conservative citizens. Rumors alone were responsible for discontinuing business at this bank, and partial liquidation of its assets already shows that it would be operating today, with ample protection for its de-positors, had it not been for the spread of these rumors.

Some slight anxiety persisted for a brief time following the closing of the Citizens bank. Similar or worse disquiet in some cities of the country has left in its trail of hysteria wounded business, hurt friendships and weakened community spirit—all of it self-imposed through unwarranted fear.

When you realize that the banking business as a whole has had to combat wild, senseless and harmful rumors by persons who have no hesitation to point the finger of alarm in idle conversation; when you realize that the very people who are asking when the depression is going to end are largely responsible for carrying it on, it is small wonder that banks have tightened up on loans and have, on the other hand, felt compelled to retain in their vaults large sums to meet an hysterical emergency. Blame rests with rumor-mongers, not the bankers.

Those who have withdrawn money from any of the banks in Salem should either take it back or go out and spend it. Idle money means idle men and continued depression, a vicious circle of public creation. Eliminate fear and you eliminate the vicious circle. It cannot be done in a moment, nor in a day. Confidence in business institutions is much more easily destroyed than built, and it will require a gradual process of confidence building to restore normalcy in business.

Thus it is that the stability of the Citizens bank, as shown by the process of liquidation, will mean a steadying down and resumption of confidence and business building in Salem. Let's get the money and the men back to work.

Largest Peach Crop in Years is Problem to County Growers

250,000 Bushel Yield in Columbiana Estimated by Farm Agent Lower; Prices Are Down to Lowest

What to do with the largest peach crop in history is the serious problem facing Columbiana county orchardists today. Thousands of peach trees throughout the county are groaning with the fruit, prices are down to the lowest level reached in local markets in years and many farmers are not even bothering to pick the fruit.

The crop in Columbiana county
orchards is estimated by Floyd Lower, county extension agent, at 250,000 bushels, almost five times
the 1930 crop. The combined crop of Columbiana and Mahoning counties, two districts covering somewhat the same marketing area, is figured conservatively at 500,000 bushels.

Prices of peaches today in Salem
varied from 25 cents to 40 cents a bushel.

Wife Arrives Late As Steamer Leaves; Mad Dashes Follow

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—
The next time Mr. and Mrs.
Robert Allen of Hollywood start out on an ocean voyage they are going up the gangplank together.

Allen boarded the steamer El Salvador for New York yesterday, expecting Mrs. Allen to follow him. "The boat got under way and Allen discovered that his wife was not aboard. He returned to shore on the pilot boat.

Meantime, Mrs. Allen, arriving at the dock just as the ship
was getting under way, hired a speedboat to catch the ship. The pilot boat and speedboat passed
each other coming alongside the ship Mrs. Allen learned her husband had left it. She returned to the dock.

Allen, having learned about the speedboat was just hiring
another one for a dash to the ship when Mrs. Allen arrived.

3 JURISTS WIN IN YOUNGSTOWN "GIFT" CHARGES

Jenkins and Lyons Are Reprimanded; Henderson "Admonished"

VISITING JUDGES HAND DOWN EDICT

Refuse to Approve of Gratuities Extended To Jenkins

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 11.—A court of three out of town judges
today refused to disbar Common Pleas Judges David G. Jenkins and J. H. S. Lyons, but included in its decision a formal reprimand to the two jurists, whose disbarment
charges closed yesterday.

Henderson "Admonished" Attorney A. M. Henderson, also a defendant in the disbarment
cases, was given an "admonition."

Judge Jenkins had admitted accepting a trip to New Orleans and treatment at a medical clinic offered him by a claim agent for the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light company but had maintained that it was a case of "personal friendship" and had not influenced his official actions.

Judge Lyons had admitted non-payment of his electric light bill
for several years, but held that it was due to his inability to pay.
Lyons also was charged with appointing Henderson to a receivership position after Henderson had paid off Lyons' notes amounting to $5,900.

Appointment Not Criticized
The court found no criticism as to the appointment, but concluded that as long as Judge Lyons is indebted to Henderson, he should not sit on cases in which Henderson is an attorney.

As to Judge Jenkins, the court
said it could not approve of his acceptance of the gratuities extended to him. The presiding judges,
the decision said, "with the opinion
to be considered as a public reprimand
to Judge Lyons and Judge
Jenkins and an admonition to Mr.
Henderson."

KIWANIS HEARS SCHOOL LEADER

Instilling of Ideals of Service, Is Goal,
Kerr Asserts

To instill ideals of service into the younger generation was pointed out as the main objective of education by Earl S. Kerr, superintendent of Salem public schools, in an address Thursday at the Kiwanis club meeting at the Memorial building.

Kerr, speaking on the subject,
"The School's Task," discussed various purposes of education and cited changes in systems as resulting in the past few years. He was introduced by W. L. Fultz.

Preservation of the arts and structures of civilization, offering of opportunities for individual development and instillation of ideals of service were cited as the three objects of education by the speaker.

It is said that the growing child lives over again the history of our race. The school enables the child to catch up with civilization. It must turn out the common rudiments
of education, preserve the arts and structures of civilization."

"It is the school's task," the speaker continued, "to stimulate individual skills and to open up
new fields of interest, to enable the child to find himself and to appropriate life's every opportunity.

"The word 'service' is coming to have a wide meaning. When we solve the problem of wisely distributing the fruits of the machine, our Machine Age, as modern times are called, will be a blessing indeed.

With the increased leisure time
available in this machine era, men
are able to spend more time at other activities.

"To train children to make the most of such opportunities, to instill in them the ideals of service—
these are the great objectives of education."

Explosion In Plant Kills Two Workers

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 11.—
An explosion shortly after 11 a. m.
today ripped out the west wall of the four story roll-coating building
in the center of the kodak plant of the Eastman Kodak company, killing two workmen, and critically injuring 14 others.

Eight hundred workers in the building were saved from panic by cool-headed leadership and marched to safety.

TWO-DAY FAIR GETS UNDER WAY AT COLUMBIANA

Streets Are Closed For Exhibits; Music On Program

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 11.—A record crowd is expected to visit Columbiana today and Saturday in the village's annual street fair, Leo Sponseller, manager, announced
this morning.

Final plans for the event were formed Thursday when a large tent
was erected on South Main st., to house agricultural exhibits. Main st., between the village square and Railroad st., will be closed to traffic
all day today and Saturday.

Music will be played both days
by the American Legion band.
Sponseller is assisted by various committees headed by Homer C.
Culp, Thomas H. Snyder, Ray Fisher, Howard Hoover, Carl W. Werner, George V. Frye and Robert

LE BOURGET, FRANCE, Sept.
11.—Two French airplanes, one of a veteran of the transatlantic airways, left Le Bourget airdrome
at dawn today in the direction of Tokyo, seeking to wrest the non-stop flight ribbon from America
and matching speed with each
other.

One was the Hyphen II, manned
by Joseph Le Brix, Marcel Doret and Andre Mesmin, who crashed in Siberia several months ago with the original Hyphen on a similar venture. The other was the Question
Mark, owned by Major Dieudonne
Coste, which was carrying Paul Codos and Sergeant Henry Robida.

Both crews were on the trail of the 5,000-mile record set by Russell Boardman and John Polando, American fliers, who flew from New York to Istanbul without a stop in July. Coste and Maurice Bellonte previously held the record with a dash of 4,912 miles into Manchuria.

Grand Jury Sets Up New Service Record

The September grand jury now
in session in common pleas court
No. 2 at Lisbon is establishing a new record for service.

It has been indicated by Pro-

main in session Saturday. On account of detail connected with the examination of witnesses, the jury
did not begin its investigations,
scheduled for Thursday morning,
until late Thursday afternoon.

The occasion has been rare in this county when a grand jury has been compelled to remain in session
longer than three days.

THE PAROLE JOKER

Every list of recommendations for penal reform has included more extensive use of parole.

Prison wardens whose opinions bear weight have asserted without hesitation that large numbers of prisoners should be placed on probation after short terms.

Ohio's new "good behavior" law, enacted as part of the extensive penal reform demanded by the Eastern Monday fire at the state prison seeks to give deserving prisoners the advantage of a liberal parole policy. It assumes that prison officials are right in their common belief that certain tractable prisoners should be allowed to go free under close supervision, in preference to confining them.

The joker in the parole idea is apparent. For every prisoner eligible for parole there seems to be a member of society interested in keeping him in prison. Protests by the score are being sent to the parole board asking that this prisoner or that prisoner be refused parole because he is "dangerous to society" just how much weight these protests will have on the state's new parole board remains to be seen.

They should not have as much weight as the welfare of the prisoners concerned. If these men are eligible and qualified for another chance they should have it. Unfortunately they fall in a period of depression when it will be doubly hard for them to make the necessary readjustments in their lives.

THE GUESSING GAME

Alfred E. Smith must get out the brown derby every now and then to stifle a dry political chuckle in its mellow crown. What a grand bunch of guessers people are—no!

Ever since the conclusion of his fourth term as governor of New York he has been keeping them in hot water. He had them running around in circles in 1924 at the Democratic national convention, but John W. Davis stopped all that by getting the nomination on the 1930 ballot.

It was a different story at the next convention, when his smooth organization and wide personal influence gave him the necessary two-thirds majority on the first ballot. He had the guessers dizzy with that one. Then, in a colorful campaign, he re-started a lot of latent doubt and hope, and smiled enigmatically when they faded out in the Hoover landslide. Wrong again.

Since then, he has been a spare time subject of speculation for every political informer with nothing else to do. Will he be a candidate for the nomination again? If not, to whom will his highly valued support be given? Does his denial that a report saying he will not allow his name to go before the convention is true, mean that he is out of presidential politics, or merely that he did not give out any such information? What is going on behind the scenes? Where does Tammany hall stand in the matter?

To all of which Alfred E. Smith has nothing to say. But how he must chuckle into the brown derby that served him so well back in 1928. Here's the whole nation tittering with "curiosity" concerning his plans he hasn't even made himself yet!

What Others Say

THE BUDGET DEFICIT

The federal government finished the last fiscal year with a deficit of $900,000,000. In the first two months of the new year since July 1 it has incurred a deficit of nearly $400,000,000. If the present rates of income and expenditure obtain we shall have a deficit of $1,800,000,000 by next July 1, but it is not likely to be quite that bad.

As every government in the world today is realizing, there are only three ways of meeting deficits—increasing revenues, cutting expenditures or borrowing. Most countries have adopted combination of all three methods as the soundest means of breaking even. So far the United States has taken the easiest course—further borrowing.

There are strong arguments for this course, to be sure. It's contended that government should not slash expenditures, for that will merely increase unemployment and lower the vitality of business. Yet without a check-rein on public spending a burden of debt will be piled on the nation which ultimately will weigh heavily on business and individuals.

Some compromise should be possible. The President has instituted economies in all departments, but the savings have been small. These economies may well be extended in all non-essential services of government, excepting public works which employ large numbers of men.

The vast payments on the national debt can be postponed for the present to good advantage. In 12 years the federal government has paid off $8,000,000,000 of debt. This was a sound policy through prosperous years, but since we are $5,000,000,000 ahead of the schedule of amortization, planned by congress we can afford to delay until business recovers.

For additional revenues, heavier income taxes appear undesirable psychologically. Legalization of beer and perhaps light wines is the most pleasant way of increasing revenue, but it is uncertain how much income could be obtained by that device.

Even more imperative than these restrictions of expenditure and expansion of revenue is the need for a rigid policy against new extravagance. When the congress meets there will be demands from its spendthrift element for a dole to unemployed, to veterans and to any other large groups who will vote for congressmen next year. Whatever our policy on the budget and means of balancing it, we can not afford another billion-dollar congress like the last—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Stars Say—

Saturday, September 12

A very lively and eventful day is forecast from the interesting operations by lunar as well as mutual aspect. Employment, industry, labor and real possessions are to be fore, with many prospects of solid gain, renewed initiative and probably advantageous change, promotion or honors. Purely personal matters are also lively and respond to the fortuitous influences.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and eventful year, with benefits through employment, industry, promotion and the accumulation of tangible assets and real property. There may be fine initiative and tendency to change, but too much haste or impetuosity as well as snap judgments or quick signing of papers are admonished against. "Slow but sure" should be the motto. A child born on this day may be shrewd, capable, steady and practical, gaining honors and place through its individual merits and fidelity.

Notable nativity: R. M. Hoe, inventor.

CRAWFORD, Colo. — Cattlemen with foresight erected troughs to conserve water from the prings, which has been running low during the hot weather. The springs dot the Black Mesa range land.

Veteran Editor Changes Post

Announcement of the appointment of Martin A. White (right) as Assistant General Manager of International News Service and Universal Service was made in New York by J. V. Connolly (left), General Manager of the news gathering organizations. Mr. White resigns as General Editor of the Associated Press to take up his new duties Sept. 21. He was news editor of the AP for fourteen years, being promoted to the position of chief of the wire and feature report in 1926.

Memorial Dedicated by Walker

Officiating at the unveiling of the memorial tablet to the soldiers of New York State who died in France during the World War, Mayor James J. Walker, dapper executive of New York, is shown above at the American Legion Hall in Paris at the conclusion of the ceremony. With the mayor are the Hon. Walter E. Edge, United States Ambassador to France (left), and General Gouraud, Military Commandante of Paris.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—Thoughts while strolling: New taxis featuring free cigarettes and peppermint breath lozenges. The Beaux Arts apartments with starters clad as gendarmes. And a concierge on a platform sign: "Health Reducing Institute." There's candor. Walter Trumbull.

I always hurry past one of those big gas tanks, fearing it will explode. Japanese-American tailors. Bus placards: "Courtesy Pays Dividends." The only thing that does these days. A bent over lamp post and a shatter of glass. Fannie Hurst thinner than ever.

Nobody can strut like Alexander Woolcott. Or twirl a cane like George M. Cohan. No coloring to my notion is as exquisite as the throat of a pigeon. The whine of wind against skyscrapers—like cats in a gale. Didn't Burns refer to one of his verses as "a random clink?"

Old Tories of the Sunflower Deade who walk only along Murray Hill. Tree tops turning yellow. Somehow I long for a small town in the Fall. And evening bells. Smell of bonfires. And the soft haze of frosty twilight. Wonder how Eddie Cantor happened to think of those white rimmed glasses?

Credit jewelry stores almost all vacant. The 39th street tinsor who heralds: "Get Shaven, Shined, Shorn and Shampooed Without Talk." Half the fun is chatting with a barber. There's always a crisp self assurance about expert advertising copy writers. So many women in New York resemble Fannie Brice.

Bolton Mallory, editor of Life, and bride, Nancy Carroll. A girl with a mandolin. I thought they had gone out. Travel bureaus ballyhoo India. Ghandi has proven the best of press agents. And, too, such names as Bombay and Calcutta touch off the imagination.

The dizzy-veined marble entrances of those new modernistic skyscrapers—like opening your eyes under water. Irving Berlin has a sprinkle of gray. What became of the whalebone industry? The only thing I think of I'd like for dinner tonight is cold macaroni.

My favorite weather prophet—a shrinking violet with a distaste for publicity and living in Arizona—sends me his prediction for this winter. He foretells weather by the mottle on a goose-bone, a hand-drawn from pioneer days. The winter he says will be particularly severe from January on.

A pair of Toledo O. honeymooners write me of hopping into an open horse drawn carriage holding forth around the Plaza the other dusk. They told the venerable driver to swing around the park. He sat on his perch immobile until reaching a dim lit part of the park. Without turning his head, he offered: "There's a good five minute sparking stretch along here."

The ancient Jesus seem the last link between New York as I first saw it and as it is today. They are lonely and tired old men from County Cork who try valiantly to carry on because there is nothing left for them to do. "When this falls," one of them told me, "the next step is the poor house." Next to the Plaza their best stand was on the 34th side of the old Waldorf. I am told, however, traffic regulations will not permit them at the new Waldorf. That is a pity!

Because the new Waldorf is cater-cornered from my coop, I find myself in close touch with its various surprises by peering in every few days. The wrinkle that impressed me greatest is the railroad siding deep in the basement. Here private railroad coaches are shunted from Grand Central and owners may step into waiting elevators and whisk to their apartments without passing through the lobby.

I wonder if other air castle builders have indulged their dream of pulling up to the home town depot in a private railroad car. I've even thought up a name for mine.

"I heard you were dining at the Pavilion Royale the other night," writes Elsie R. "How does one spot such a distinguished gourmand? I tried and failed."

My wife, peering over my shoulder when she should be finishing her step scrubbing, suggests looking for a spoon in the coffee cup.

TODAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

Even before the days of broadcasting Dr. H. P. Davis, who died at Pittsburgh yesterday, had a pretty good idea of how this new art would develop.

Sometime previous to the inauguration of KDKA, which first went on the air election night, November 2, 1920, the man who later became known as the "father of broadcasting" called his associates of the Westinghouse laboratories together and told them:

"I foresee the time, and it is not far off, when the majority of the homes will have radio apparatus in suitable cabinets and the reception of radio programs will be considered as great a necessity as the telephone. The public will have participating in important affairs as they transpire.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland,
New York City

Unsuspected Infection

Recently a dear friend of mine consulted with an eminent orthopedic surgeon concerning a severe backache he had been having such backaches for the past five years. All sorts of remedies for the relief of the pain had been tried but with out success.

This man is very active. In spite of his age, he likes to indulge in all sorts of exercises particularly horse-back riding. But after such indulgence, he would be laid up in bed for two or three days with severe backache. My friend was amazed when the orthopedic surgeon, after careful examination, told him it would be necessary for him to have his teeth and nasal sinuses X-rayed. He could not understand what his teeth or sinuses had to do with a pain in his back. He was sure there must be something wrong with either the muscles or bones of his back, otherwise there would be no pain.

Infected teeth or sinuses do not always cause pain. But as a result of the infection, poisons are sure to be absorbed by the body. They are distributed throughout the system and their ill effects may be felt anywhere in the body. My purpose in telling you this story is because many of my readers may have gone through similar experiences and may never have thought of having their teeth and sinuses X-rayed. It is wise, certainly if you are a sufferer from backache or other vague pain somewhere in the body and have obtained no relief, to make sure your teeth and sinuses contain no pus. This can only be determined by an X-ray picture.

Should a sinus be infected, it is important to receive adequate treatment for this condition. If the teeth are infected and cannot be successfully treated, there should be no hesitancy about their removal. Infected tonsils, as well as a diseased gall bladder or appendix, may cause the same trouble as infected teeth or sinuses.

In order that health may be maintained, it is important that every possible infection in the body be given attention. Its removal may require an operation, but usually it can be handled in some simple manner.

The Kind We've Been Looking For

Here's a new "free wing" plane for the lazy pilot. Just what we've been looking for! Wilbur Cornelius, Los Angeles aviator and designer, claims it will fly itself on any course set. He recently flew it from Los Angeles to San Francisco and return without touching the controls. Cornelius plans to try for a new solo record, flying at eight thousand feet, sleeping part of the time.

holdup of a Youngstown pharmacy, robbery and holdups of several gasoline stations throughout the district and other crimes. They were also questioned by Thompson concerning a series of burglaries occurring in Salem in the past three weeks.

No possibilities of the solution of the Schmidt murder are being overlooked by Salem officials. They conferred last night with members of the family but made little progress, Thompson said, and the case was as yet at a standstill. Thompson said there were no new developments whatever.

Held Funeral Service

Schmidt was believed to have been hacked to death with a meat cleaver and knife by "a person or persons unknown" between 6 and 7 a. m. Tuesday, with $300 which the victim is said by relatives to have been carrying in a leather bag in a rear pocket, reported missing.

Funeral service for Schmidt was held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Stark memorial with a large crowd attending. Rev. B. E. Rutzy, pastor of the Emmanuel Lutheran church, of which Schmidt was a member, was in charge. Burial was in Grandview cemetery.

SALEM, Ore.—Although passenger cars and trucks have increased uniformly in favor from year to year, motorcycle registrations in Oregon remain fairly uniform. In 1927, motorcycle registrations in the state numbered 643. This year, 768 were issued licenses.

Rudy's Bride Home for Visit

Here is Rudy Vallee's bride, the former Fay Webb, with her parents, Chief of Police and Mrs. Clarence Webb, at Santa Monica Cal., where the crooner's bride is visiting. Mrs. Vallee's health is said to have been threatened by the Eastern climate so the honeymoon was terminated for a visit to sunny California. Rudy was too busy in New York to make the trip.

more than it costs to run our national government before the World War. Today it is able to borrow $20,000,000 at 1.45 per cent interest.

This loan, for three months, reflects partly New York's extraordinarily good credit and more emphatically the present "extraordinary case" in money.

President Hoover and Secretary Mellon borrow $200,000,000 to help out in this emergency, the loan repayable in 20 years, sound financing at low interest.

Gov. Roosevelt, who has already started the 1932 campaign, objects to the 20-year loan as unfair to the future.

It would be still more unfair to the future to let this country go to the bow wows just now. And it was unfair to the present, when this country was forced on behalf of the future to spend tens of billions in a war that it did not start.

We have all been told 10,000 times that government should not go into any business, and that this government can't run any business efficiently or honestly. The Canadian National Railroad Co., owned by the people of Canada, surprises you with two facts. In Canada railroad public ownership succeeded where private ownership had failed. And the National Canadian railway is able to borrow money now at 4 1/2 per cent on 20-year bonds. How many privately owned American railways could do that just now?

SLIP FOLLOWS MARKET RALLY

Chemical, Utility, Railroad Shares Lead In Downward Move

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—After another small rally at the opening, stocks again slipped downward today, with chemical, utility and railroad shares leading the decline.

Allied Chemical, Reading and Eastman broke about 3 points, while Aetna, International Telephone and American Telephone lost 2. General Electric finally dipped through its old bear market low of 36 and joined Westinghouse, American & Foreign Power, International Harvester, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Pacific in recessions of 1 to 1½. U. S. Steel, after rising a point, lost its gain. American Can was steady, but General Motors duplicated its June Bottom.

Trading was light in volume, both in the brief upturn and on the subsequent reaction. Call money renewed at 1½ per cent.

CLEVELAND LIVESTOCK
HOGS — 1500; liveovers none, steady with Thursday's best prices. Most 170-200 lb. offerings in mixtures at 7 top, scattered 150-170 lb. averages 6.50-6.75, bulk pigs 6.25; rough sows 4.50; stags 3.75.

CATTLE—175, active, steady, light common to medium steers 5.50 to mostly 6.50; part load grain fed grade low in good at 8.50. Cows and bulls relatively scarce.

CALVES — 200, depreciation on numbers by late Thursday's shipper activity stimulating another strong to unevenly higher weekend trade. Few weaners bringing 12; bulk 1.50 downward; medium 9-11; culls downward to 7 and under.

SHEEP — 1600, lambs steady to weak, spots 25 lower; largely 7.50-8; common throwouts 5-5.50; few 6. Culls downward to 3.50, sheep scarce. Ewes in fair demand at 1-2 with choice lightweights quoted 3.

PITTSBURGH LIVESTOCK
HOGS — 1000; mostly 10-15 higher: 170-250 lbs. 7-7.25; 250-300 lbs. 6.50-6.85; 140-170 lbs. 6.45-6.95; packing sows steady; good grades 5.50-4.75.

CATTLE—65; steady; common heifers 5 downward; medium to good cows 3.75-4.75.

CALVES—100; steady to 50 lower; bulk better grade weaners 8.50-10; top 10.50.

SHEEP—2000; lambs steady to 25 lower; bulk better grades 7.25-7.75; top 8.

TREASURY RECEIPTS
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Treasury receipts for September 9 were $5,277,475.91; expenditures $19,405,489.16; balance $66,638,209.72. Customs receipts for nine days of September were $9,506,096.14.

for a parade in the afternoon, to be followed by a contest later in the afternoon and at night at Reilly field. Attractive cash prizes will be offered by the merchants.

Twenty-five per cent of the gate receipts from this feature, as well as the football game Friday night, will go to the public school milk fund for the benefit of undernourished children during the coming winter. This will be administered by the school nurse.

The Legion and the merchants believe they have in store a real treat for Salemites and all visitors, and they are hopeful that this event will be as successful as the former homecoming festivals.

Al Smith Will Speak for Himself on Political Plans

Interest Revived As To His Real Intentions In 1932 Drive

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Al Smith's statement that "nobody has a right to speak for me," made with reference to a published story that he would not allow his name to go before the Democratic national convention next year, served to revive interest in Democratic circles here today as to the real intentions of the ex-governor in the 1932 campaign.

In some quarters his disclaimer was promptly interpreted as meaning that he still harbors the intention of regaining the nomination if he can. Those who hold this view are mostly opponents of Smith, dry, and intensely suspicious of his every public act and statement. Their attitude today was expressed. "See, we told you, he denies that he isn't going to run."

Won't Be Candidate
But a much larger and probably better informed Democratic group believe strongly that Al Smith has no intention of becoming a candidate in 1932. They qualify this belief by stating that, of course, if the Democratic convention next June became stampeded and renominated the 1928 standard bearer it is not likely he would reject the nomination after it was made.

Few, however, believe that the Democratic convention next year will be stampeded for anyone. In the first place, there are too many candidates, and some real strength. In the second place, there is certain to be a powerful bloc of anti-Smith delegates in the convention, including virtually all of those from the 15 southern and border states.

Injection of Al Smith's name in the convention would be calculated to stir up an immediate row, and that is the one thing most Democrats whether pro-Smith or anti-Smith, want to avoid at all costs. They believe, rightly or wrongly, that they are going to elect a president next year. They believe the only thing that can defeat them is another internal row of the Madison Square Garden type, or another schism of the 1920 brand.

Titular Leader
Until the 1932 convention nominates a candidate, Al Smith is the titular leader of the party, and he commands the strongest personal following of any Democrat in the party. His friends here point out, were he to come out now and announce publicly that he is not a candidate and would accept a renomination, it would be tantamount to renouncing his titular leadership, and deserting that large personal following which undeniably he has. Immediately, he would take his place on the shelf alongside James M. Cox, John W. Davis and other past heroes who no longer lead and who no longer have any following worth considering.

"That, his friends say, Al Smith will not do. As the leader of his party and as possessor of the great personal following any Democrat has had, he is determined to make his influence felt in the convention next year—both in the nomination of a candidate, and in the writing of a platform. He is, his intimates say, determined that things that he stood for in 1928 will be vindicated in the party platform and candidate in 1932. And that, his friends assert, is his strong ambition at present."

munication with the rest of the island.

The death of several American priests in the Belize hurricane was announced by the state department today on the basis of a telegram from the Pan-American Airways communications at Miami, Fla.

The communication was received at Miami from Belize. It reported the staff of the American consulate safe with the exception of a slight injury to Consul Giles Russell Taggart.

Belize Devastated
Belize was said by the message to have been "devastated".
"Belize devastated by severe hurricane and tidal wave yesterday afternoon and evening. Authorities advise casualties not ascertained but should run into hundreds. Few buildings intact. Relief of all kinds urgently needed. Please advise any action proposed by American organizations. Several American priests killed but definite information about dead and injured not available. Consulate staff safe with exception of slight injury to Consul Taggart."

DEATHS

MRS. ALICE SLAGLE
Funeral service for Mrs. Alice Slagle, 73, who died at 3:45 p. m. Wednesday at the home of her son, Everett Slagle, at Minerva, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Minerva Christian church, of which she was a member. Rev. R. A. Birge will officiate. Interment will be in the Valley lot cemetery at Minerva. She had been ill for months.

Mrs. Slagle was born Oct. 21, 1857, in Alliance and had spent her entire life in that vicinity. She was married to Peter Slagle of Minerva in 1885. He preceded her in death 16 years ago. She was a member of the Christian church of Minerva.

Surviving her are two sons, Everett and Lawrence, both of Minerva; a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Moore of Malvern; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Kryder of Louisville and Mrs. Martha Haynam of Paris; a brother Marion Willis of Minerva and three grandchildren.

ARLENE W. EVERITT
COLUMBIANA, Sept. 11.—Arlene W. Everitt, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Everitt of Fairfield township, near Leetonia, died at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Salem City hospital. She had been ill one week. Death was a result of complications. She was born near Leetonia, on May 14, 1921.

Surviving are her parents and three brothers, Sheldon, Harold and Arden, all at home.

She was in the fifth grade of Fairfield Central school and attended the First Christian church at Columbiana.

Funeral service will be at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the First Christian church at Columbiana. Rev. George A. Funk will be in charge. Interment will be at Midway cemetery.

MRS. JOHN KIRKBRIDE
Funeral service for Mrs. Mary Melvina Kirkbride, 80, wife of John Kirkbride, who died Wednesday morning at her home in Deerfield, was held this afternoon at the home. The service was in charge of Rev. Sherman Kirkbride of New Wilmington, Pa.; Rev. James Kirkbride of New Galilee, Pa., and Rev. McBride of North Benton. Interment was in the Hartzell cemetery.

Mrs. Kirkbride was born June 20, 1850 in Berlin township, Mahoning county.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Nelson Hartzell of North Benton and Mrs. H. K. Rose of Akron, and five grandchildren. Two sons, Clyde T. and Jay H., preceded her in death.

Mrs. Kirkbride had relatives in Salem.

Deny False Bills
WARREN, O., Sept. 11.—W. G. Tyrell and William R. Bettiker, trustees of Fowler township, Trumbull county, in a joint statement, denied they obtained nearly $1,500 of township funds by falsifying bills as charged by a state examiner's report.

Hear Guard Charges
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—The civil service commission today was scheduled to hear charges by 55 guards dismissed at Ohio penitentiary as an economy measure that Warden P. E. Thomas did not observe seniority of service and ignored their ratings under civil service.

Governor Long Ties Rival's Hands; 'Safe' to Leave Now

Battle in Louisiana Over Power Between Chief Executive and Lieutenant Governor Has Been Won by Former, He Says.

Gov. HUEY P. LONG • Lieut. Gov. PAUL N. CYR of LOUISIANA

The question of executive power has long been a paramount issue between Gov. Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, and his bitter enemy, Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr. Once, when Gov. Long left the State, the Lieutenant Governor became acting chief executive, and promptly "fired" several appointees of Long's. Immediately upon the Governor's return to Louisiana his henchmen were all promptly reappointed and the Cyr appointees tossed out. Now Gov. Long thinks he has his antagonist, anxiously awaiting the chief executive's forthcoming trip out of the State to a football game at West Point to remove some more of Long's officeholders for some of his selection, tied up so that he can't assume the temporarily vacated gubernatorial chair and powers. Although elected to the U. S. Senate, Gov. Long refuses to resign the Governorship to keep his rival, Cyr, out of office.

COUNTY BALLOT BOARD RESIGNS

Jefferson Election Aids Quit In Face Of Criticism

STREUBENVILLE, Sept. 11.—Continued criticism of the Jefferson county board of elections following a mixup in the registration card system and charges of incompetency in the August primaries, led to the wholesale resignation of the board Thursday night. The board announced that it is resigning "for the best interests of all concerned."

The board previously had planned to remain intact pending the outcome of an investigation by Secretary of State Clarence Brown, whose report upon the primary day mixup is expected in a few days.

Those who resigned were J. P. McFadden, Sr., chief deputy supervisor, and George Conroy, Democrats; and Orville Lightnizer and Frank McCullough, Republicans.

A threatened split in the Republican ranks over the successors to the retiring members of the board was averted at a Republican get-together called in the face of rumors that the board would either resign or be ousted. E. DeWitt Erskine, chairman of the Jefferson county executive committee, and Mrs. Phoebe Welsh were recommended by the executive committee for the board. Mrs. Welsh was backed by the women's wing of the party and her recommendation by the committee caused threats of a bolt.

Democrats recommended Robert Hagerly, former Mingo Junction, postmaster, and Arthur Gorman, former justice of the peace, for the positions.

GROWERS FACE PEACH PROBLEM

250,000 Bushel Yield In Columbiana Estimated By Farm Agent

many growers must leave thousands of bushels hang on trees fall to the ground and rot." Lower said. "It is now too late to make shipments of peaches to other sections of the country and if an orchardist did desire to export the fruit, the cost of packing and prices obtained are prohibitive."

"The only way farmers can get rid of the record crop is to sell the peaches locally and this is an impossibility," Mahoning county growers are coming to a point where they even refuse to pick the peaches any more."

This year's record crop is probably indicative of a small crop of peaches during the 1932 growing season, the extension chief said, in that trees seldom bear fruit in great numbers two consecutive years. Wise persons, Lower explained, are buying as many peaches as possible during the wave of low prices, canning them, and preparing for the small crop next year.

He explained that unusually fine weather, a favorable amount of rainfall, extraordinarily good temperatures for fruit growing and other elements brought on the season's great crop.

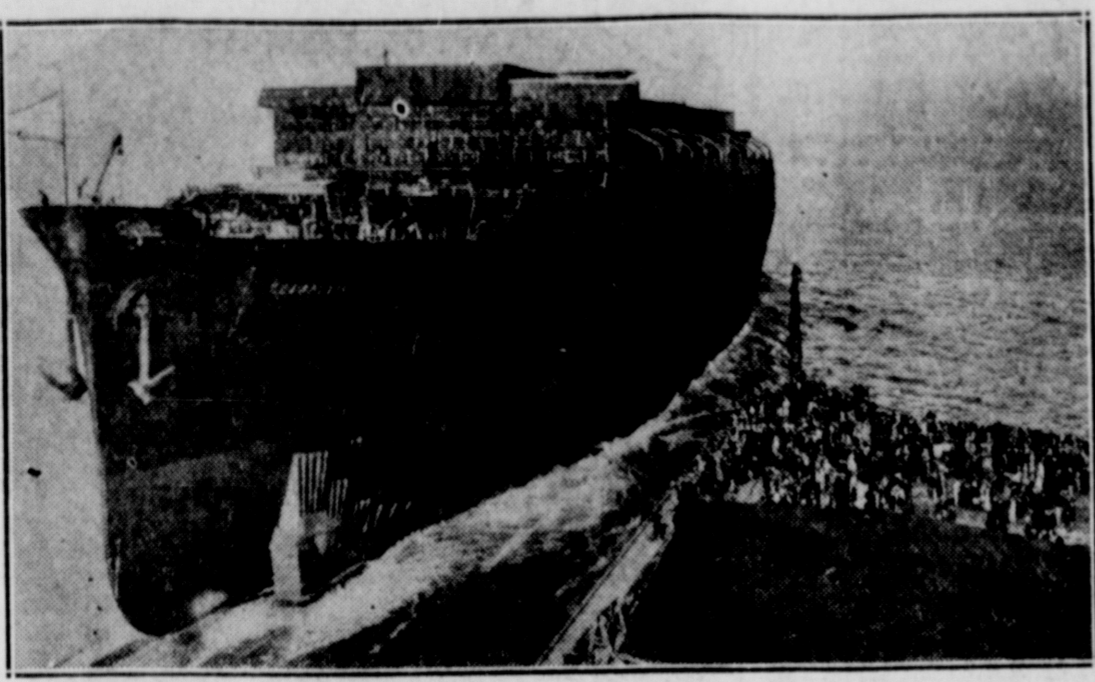

1931 Value Slumps

Last year's crop of 65,000 bushels is estimated by growers to have been valued at $107,250. This year's crop, estimated at almost five times the 1930 growth, is estimated to be valued at only $69,500. With last year's prices prevailing, growers figured that the present crop would have been worth to farmers more than $400,000.

The situation is explained by Lower as becoming more serious than ever when the grower figures in, besides the original cost of his land and taxes, purchase of fertilizer, costs of pruning, spraying apparatus, picking and labor. Then too, baskets are not obtained gratis and other miscellaneous expenses always enter into the peach growing costs.

There is also an abundant crop of apples, pears, and plums, Lower stated, but the peach situation is most serious because of the shortness of the season. Peaches go on the market, generally, during the second week in August and de-

New Ocean Greyhound Launched

The new super cabin-liner "Champlain" is shown being launched under the flag of the French Line at Saint Nazaire, France, amidst great celebration participated in by notables from Paris and thousands of other cheering people. The new ocean greyhound, majestic as it slides into its element, will be ready to enter the New York-Havre run early next Spring, it is forecast.

part in the middle of September. Only a few, more hardy varieties, survive for October marketing.

"Good warm weather ripens peaches almost over night," Lower said. "They must be picked at once or they will fall and rot. And how can a farmer pick every peach as it ripens when there are millions of them ripening all at once?"

Don Juan, heir to the vacant throne of Spain, shows the same love of sports that characterized his father, the deposed King Alfonso. Here is the young prince about to start for a speedboat spin in England, where he is attending military school.

PARIS.—"One Hundred Days" is the title of the French adaptation of the Italian drama "Maggio," by Forzano, which is to be given at the Odeon theater next winter. The text is filled with the social and political ideas of Mussolini who is said to have collaborated with the author. Napoleon is the principle personage in the play. The well known director and actor, Gernier is working on the production with Andre Mauprey. The question has arisen whether Mussolini will sign this creation when he would not try to present in Italy.

THEATER Attractions

Eddie Dowling, "the complete showman" as he is called is the star of "Honeymoon Lane" feature at the State theater today.

Dowling is seen as the employee in a luxurious summer resort gambling hall operated by Noah Beery, June Collier, Noah's niece, is in love with Eddie, and Beery tries to upset the romance by accusing Eddie of crookedness in his duties. Dowling leaves in disgrace and goes to the broken-down hotel of Mary Carr, motherly old widow who gives him a job as manager. Eddie manages to build up a clientele for her place.

Meanwhile June has learned the truth about Eddie and their romance is mended. Good luck comes in the visit of a European king who stops at Eddie's hotel incognito. Later when Beery appears and tries to put Eddie into disfavor with mother Carr, the king takes a hand and Beery is undone.

AT THE GRAND

"Caught" is the Grand's attraction today. Turning back the clock of destiny to the old wild days, when every western town recognized gambling as a time honored pastime, "Caught" pictures this life in the "Bird Cage," dance hall and gambling place.

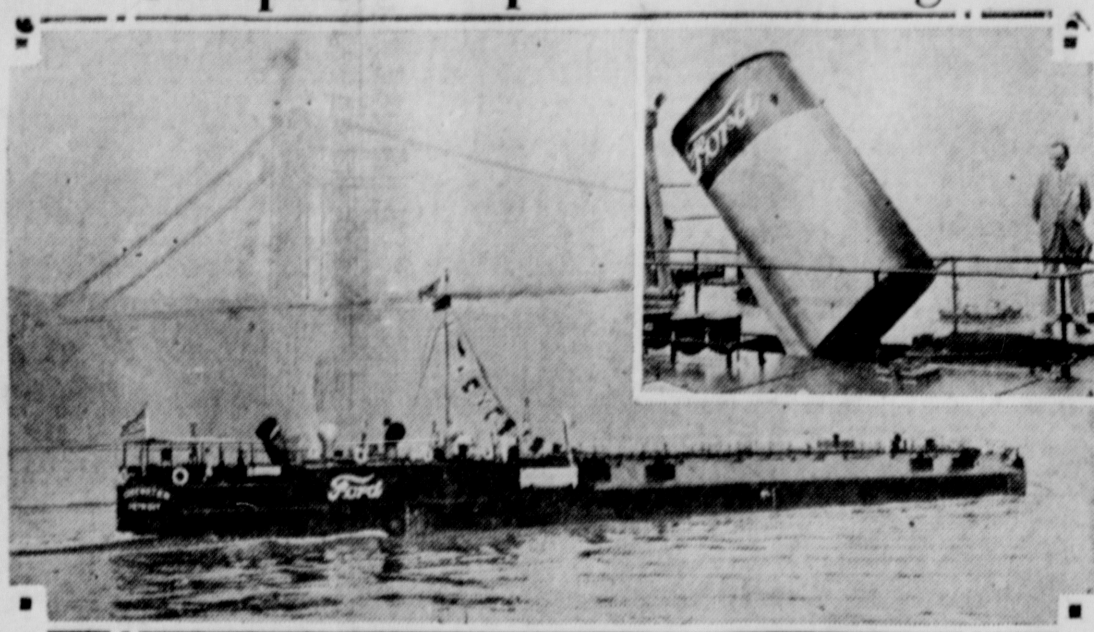

Richard Arlen, as an officer of the cavalry, is sent at the head of his company to clean up the gang of cattle rustlers who work under the leadership of a Western woman, known as Calamity Jane. As the owner of the "Bird Cage," Calamity plays all ends against the middle in every brand of lawlessness that the border offers.

Calamity, played by Louise Dresser, can shoot with the best of them and has the same iron nerve, and with these characteristics becomes the storm center of a gripping drama. Frances Dee is the feminine lead.

THE DALLIES, Ore.—Fred and Joe Zurlinden take their religion seriously. They appeared in justice court, charged with "beating up" a neighbor, whose electric water pump interfered with the Zurlinden's reception on the radio of a Sunday morning sermon broadcast.

Collapsible Ship for Low Bridge

The new turbine-driven freight barge, "Edgewater," recently completed for the Ford Motor Company, is shown as it passed down the Hudson River at New York with the new Washington Memorial Bridge in the foreground. Note that one barge already has disappeared and the smokestack is on its way down. This is one of the two new barges built especially for service between the Ford plants at Dearborn, Mich., and Edgewater, N. J. The disappearing super-structure, which can be lowered or raised as occasion demands, makes it possible for the ship to pass under stationary bridges over any bodies of water. Insert depicts the smokestack collapsing.

See Political "Fire Eaters" as Figures in 1932 Campaign

Observers Look For Action From Murray and Long

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The political fire-eaters whose acts are best in hard times are doing some preliminary turns before such responsive audiences that some of them are expected to break into the national political campaigns next year.

Two of the foremost, Governors William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma and Huey Long of Louisiana, both Democrats, have until recently been regarded with slightly amused tolerance in such sedate political centers as Washington. But they are being taken more seriously now. Murray called out troops and stopped overproduction of oil which was forcing prices to ruinous depths. Long is receiving support in his efforts to suspend cotton growing by state action after the south spurned the federal farm board's attempts to reduce acreage and then to destroy one-third of the current crop.

Boom For Murray

Many Democrats expect Long and Murray to crash with spectacular impact on the national Democratic convention next year. Murray already has announced his intention of representing Oklahoma on the platform committee. A presidential boom as been started for him. Both governors probably will seek to address the convention. They are direct action men and they speak shirt-sleeve language.

No Mustangs quite like Murray and long have appeared in Republican preserves. But there are the Lafollette brothers—Senator Robert M., and Governor Philip—young men with old heads and their father's fight. The Republicans also have Senator Smith Wildman (not a nickname) Brookhart who has all of Alfalfa Bill Murray's instincts but without his flair. They have Gifford Pinchot disciple of Roosevelt, rich and radical, who is going to the next Republican convention with no idea of doing anything that will make President Hoover happy. And most feared of all, there is Senator William E. Borah. He has been toughening up out in Idaho all summer. He will be back here in two or three weeks prepared to wage war on the administration's domestic policies through the convention.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR TWO FLIERS

Search of Aleutian Isles Fails to Reveal Trace Of Missing Airmen

(By Associated Press)

SEATTLE, Sept. 11.—Hope that Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, missing trans-Pacific airmen, would be found alive was virtually abandoned today after numerous reports of planes passing over various sections of the Aleutian islands and northern Canada failed to yield any trace of them.

Aviation experts and coast guard officers said there was scarcely a chance of finding the airmen who took off from Japan Monday on a non-stop flight to Seattle.

Reports that a plane was heard passing over Dutch Harbor, Aleutian islands, early Wednesday, were discounted when messages from the coast guard cutters, Chelan and Itasca, searching the waters in that vicinity, said they had investigated but found no confirmation.

THE DAY In Sports

WATCH GRID ATTENDANCE DECREASES PREDICTED

Figures on attendance and gate receipts at college football will be doubly interesting this season. This is because they will afford proof of the correctness of almost any premise taken on the state of the great fall sport.

The Carnegie Foundation has offered figures to show that a decline in interest set in last season. The United Press conducted a survey which showed that while this was so in some sectors it was not so in others. There was a lessening of attendance in the East and mid-West and gains in the South and Far West.

As was pointed out at the time of the survey the interest as evidenced by attendance, was in direct proportion to the state of the play itself. Football greatness was lessened a bit in the East. It stood firm in the mid-West, and gained in the South and Far West. This only goes to prove further that the fan will follow in the wake of a winner.

It's to be expected that there will be noticeable decreases in patronage. The defenders of football in its present status will attribute this to the fact that eating and amusement dollars are somewhat fewer and farther between this fall. Reformers will attribute it to decrease in interest generally, although they may admit that economic conditions had a slight effect.

Major John Griffith, commissioner of the Western Conference, was in the East a few days ago and told the United Press that he expects no decreases in attendance and "fan" interest. He said that advance sale of tickets this season has been higher than in ten years. It's interesting to observe that scarcely any games have been cut from the national schedule because of conditions. There is a college here and there which has abandoned football for maybe a year and maybe for always, but in the general scheme of the game there will be no reduction.

When dead leaves are burning of a bye October afternoon the fans will turn to the stadium. And just try to buy tickets to some of the games.

EIGHT COLLEGES OPEN WORKOUTS IN LOOP TODAY

Twelve Lettermen Return At Athens; Wesleyan Hit by Graduation

TWO INDIANA TEAMS JOIN CONFERENCE

Depauw, Wabash to Seek Laurels; Cincinnati Boasts Strength

The tramp of spiked shoes and the thud of bounding ball will sound from the practice fields of eight Ohio and Indiana colleges today as approximately 450 athletes swing into action for the coming Buckeye football season. Augmented by the tentative membership of Wittenberg, and Depauw, and Wabash from Indiana, the Buckeye this year will present some of the highest grade football in the mid-west.

Ohio U. Favored
 Picking a winner at this stage of the game is even more difficult than usual. Of course Ohio University, twice champions, are general favorites to repeat, but Coach Peden lost heavily by graduation and there will be seven energetic opponents trying to pull his team off the throne. Ohio Wesleyan or Miami may do the trick and it is not without possibility that Depauw or Cincinnati may spring a surprise to upset the dope. In fact, from all reports competition will be keener this year than ever before.

In spite of a tendency to minimize strength there seems to be a general spirit of optimism in all camps.

Ohio University will make a strong bid for a third championship team. Coach Peden has 12 lettermen returning and a half dozen promising sophomores besides reserves of last year. As a whole the freshman team was only ordinary and graduation made large holes in Ohio's strong line for which there are no apparent candidates of caliber. Ohio opens with Indiana at Bloomington on September 26.

Wesleyan Loses Stars
 Ohio Wesleyan lost heavily by graduation, especially backs. Ten lettermen will return and reserves are plentiful and will fill vacancies credibly. Coach Gauthier's sophomores are above par and stars ineligible last year are expected to qualify to strengthen the Bishop lineup.

Miami has the smallest group of lettermen returning, but nine remaining after a heavy graduation mortality. The Redskins boast of the greatest crop of sophomores in years, however, and if Coach Pittser can develop these his team ought to be strong near the end of the season. Miami takes on a strong foe in Pittsburgh for the first game on September 26.

Cincinnati with Ed and Clarence Seldinger both back, boasts of the largest number of candidates with 100 expected out today. Inspired by a new organization and increased public enthusiasm, the Bearcats are threatening to play havoc with championship hopes of other schools. Coach Dana King will have a fine group of sophomores besides a half dozen injured stars of last year from which to build a team for the stiffest schedule in years. After a night game, Rio Grande on September 26, the Bearcats meet Ohio State in Columbus on October 3.

New Coach at Denison
 Denison faces the handicap of a new system. Coach George Rich entering upon his duties there this season. Eleven lettermen will return, and a fair sophomore squad leads Denison fans to hope that the Big Reds will not finish in the cellar as last year.

Wittenberg, Depauw, and Wabash will have partial Buckeye schedules. Wittenberg has one game, with Miami. The Lutherans have 14 returning lettermen and a round dozen of promising sophomores. Center Bill Edwards' position alone remains unfilled. Wabash returns 17 lettermen and will have the same lineup as finished the 1930 season with a good group of sophomores in reserve.

Depauw returns 15 lettermen, the strongest sophomores in years and Coach Neal, entering his second year, hopes to finish the year with at least as good a record as his first, when he lost but one game. Depauw plays Ohio and Cincinnati.

HARDWARE BATTLES MULLINS FOR SALEM SOFTBALL PENNANT

The struggle for the Salem Softball league championship nears its final turn today as the Mullins Foremen's club and the Salem Hardware, still tied for first place, clash for the second time this week at Centennial park field.

The winner of the game will be adjudged the championship aggregation of the second half league scheduled. Should the Hardware trim the Foremen the two teams will clash in a post-season series at Reilly athletic stadium starting Monday night.

Permission was granted J. M. Kelley for the use of the school stadium during the series at the board of education meeting Thursday night. Games will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Should Mullins defeat the Hardware today the series will involve the body-makers versus an all star aggregation selected by the board of arbitration.

The Pottery and Cigars play at 6:45 today.
 The Hardware took another step towards the title Thursday by defeating the Colonial Sandwich Shoppe, 8-1, in a one-sided battle. Early allowed the victims only three hits.

The feature battle of the evening was a great hurling duel involving Eddie Miller of the United Cigars and Lefty Bard, Kiwanis slasher. The two hurlers pitched four innings during which they allowed only two hits between them, only three safeties being scored the entire game.

Grid Outlook Dark At State College

STATE COLLEGE, PA. — Sept. 11.—Football prospects for the 1931 season were not so bright at State College, once the home of the most feared eleven in the East. Only seven lettermen responded to the opening call of Coach Bob Higgins, one-time all-America end. There were no ends, nor centers, in the group, and only two backs, one of them a substitute last season.

Higgins will have to build his attack around George Lasch, captain and fullback, and Boy Snyder, who filled halfback and quarterback assignments last season.

Stone Plans Development Of Strong Offensive At Salem High

Three Veterans Back to Aid in Formation of Powerful Attack

An offensive attack built around three backfield stars who played prominent roles in victories attained by Salem High during the 1930 football season will be thrown against the Red and Black's opponents in the coming campaign of gridiron warfare which opens Saturday, September 19, when Canton McKinley invades Reilly athletic stadium.

Attempts will be made by Coach Floyd Stone to bring truth to the old adage of sportdom that "the best defense is a good offense," and with a trio of lettermen—Ed Beck, John French and Jack Carpenter—returning, hopes for this powerful offensive are high.

Three Star Backs Return

A diagnosis of talent available from the squad of 50 griders participating in pre-season drills at Dunn Eden lake reveals the possibility of the materialization of Stone's plans. Beck is ranked among the best ball-carrying griders ever developed here; Carpenter is a speedy, flashy runner-back of punts and rated high as a ball carrier. French is a line plunger extraordinary and fine at backing up the line, can plunge off tackles with speed and power and is a good passer.

Offensively the team's main difficulty is location of a fourth backfield member to work with this trio. The hunt is on for a gridder who can run interference, block and tackle. He is needed to replace William Smith, last year the team's outstanding blocker, to lead the way on the offensive drives planned for the triumvirate of veterans.

Incidental to this search for another back is the hunt for five center linemen who will possess blocking talents, who can hit the opposition's defense with great power, continue on through and smother the secondary backfield, defensive formation. It's a perfect offensive combination that the coaches are seeking to locate.

Opponents Watch Beck

Beck's talents as a backfield star are bound to place him in line for ranking as the district's leading triple-threat star. But he will also be the most watched player in Northeastern Ohio, a flashy gridder who is always endangering the opposition's goal line, regardless of the position of the ball. What the result of this close watching of opponents will be is hard to estimate—it is a fact that it will prove a big handicap to the team and the Beck himself.

Stone's offensive attack has yet not reached a stage where it can be termed complete. In fact his entire machine is being shifted back and forth in hopes of locating the best possible combination and the starting lineup for the McKinley game is far from a certainty. It may be that even the few lettermen who are being looked on as the nucleus for the 1931 edition will be forced onto the reserve squad by younger talent.

Three Varsity Ends Back

The return of Norman Early to the grid squad assures the team of three ends of more than ordinary caliber. Gordon Keyes and Purn Siding, who with Hugh Bailey, bore the brunt of responsibilities attributed to 1930 wingmen, also will be back. Siding and Early are both of the long, rangy type of end, can spear passes from either side. Keyes is a shorter youth, but possesses sufficient speed and ability to catch passes to neutralize the handicap he faces from the lack of height.

Early may be shifted to tackle with Keyes and Siding at the ends.

With Beck or French doing the passing end two of the above trio on the receiving end, the school's aerial offensive should not be depreciated. It will give the team a triple offensive attack—line plunging, off tackle or end runs, and passing.

GIANTS BATTLE FOR NATIONAL LEAGUE TITLE

But Chance of Victory In Race Is Slim; Cards Have 7-Game Lead

(By Associated Press)

It seems to be only a matter of time now before the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, leaders of the two major leagues, reach the point where their grips on the 1931 pennants are mathematical certainties. Today the Cards have only one possible rival left and the A's two.

Brooklyn Eliminated

The New York Giants kept following the pace set by the National league leaders yesterday, but Brooklyn received its dismissal from the hands of the last place Cincinnati Reds. With all other rivals long since out of it, the Washington Senators and New York Yankees still cling to the faint chance that they will overtake Philadelphia's Athletics.

Seven games behind the Giants turned in one of the day's greatest feats as they opened their final tour of the west with a 6 to 1 triumph over Pittsburgh. The Pirates had been going great guns to record eight straight victories.

There was no gain registered by the Giants, however, for the Cardinals won their fifth in a row, downing the Boston Braves 7 to 3.

Cubs Wallop Phils

This victory alone would have been enough to end Brooklyn's chances of taking the pennant, but Cincinnati completed the job by downing the Robins 5 to 1. Clear out of the race through a nine game losing streak, the Chicago Cubs came back to winning form with a bank. With Pat Malone pitching well and helping his own game with a homer, the Cubs downed the Phils 17 to 4.

The Athletics and Washington again played just well enough to win a game apiece and hold their places, 13 games apart at the head of the American league. Each picked up a half game on the New York Yankees, the other team which has a mathematical chance to win, as the New Yorkers had an off day.

The A's hammered Wallace Herbert of St. Louis for four runs in the first inning then coasted through to a 6 to 3 triumph. The Senators fielded expertly behind Lloyd Brown, cutting down Cleveland's scoring chances with four double plays as they downed the Indians 5 to 3.

Huge Catfish Caught

RADFORD, Va.—The largest catfish seen in years was displayed recently by Artie Roberts and George Caldwell. It measured 37 inches in length and weighed 25 pounds.

HEAVIES CLASH MONDAY NIGHT

Alex Thomas to Present Card Featuring Hansen and Lumpkin

An all-star wrestling show, featuring a card with all heavyweights, will be held at Rayen Wood auditorium, Youngstown, next Monday, promoted by Alex Thomas.

Charlie Hansen, Seattle, Wash. "Wildcat" who recently opposed John Pesek in a Cleveland show, battles Roy "Father" Lumpkin of Georgia Tech. football fame in the main bout. Hard Kruskamp of Ohio State and Bob Jensen, former all-Western conference tackle with Iowa, clash in the semi-final.

The opener brings together Robin Reed, former Olympic welterweight champion, and Harold Shums of Indianapolis. Popular prices will prevail with the first bout billed at $15.

Al Zili puts on another show tonight, presenting Arthur "Des" Anderson of Seattle, Wash., in a match against Bobby Sampson of Chicago.

Red Lindsay of Tucson, Ariz., and Rob Roy meet in the semifinal and Bob Amstead, East Liverpool, and Bill Hoveh, Hungary, are scheduled in the curtain raiser.

"My sweetheart smokes 'em . . ."

"NOW, you know, Bob was raised in a tobacco country. He has worked in two cigarette factories; and I have heard him say all of them are just the same. He says there are a lot of pipes and things like that running through the roofs of the factories and sometimes they look different, but that the way cigarettes are made is all the same.

"Bob says all tobaccos receive the same sort of drying—heat treatment, he called it. In one factory, he says, they may talk about 'baking' the tobaccos and in another they call it another name. He says what they actually do is to 'dry' the tobaccos—reduce the moisture in them—and that the machine that they all use is called a 'Dryer.'

"But when it comes to the quality of tobacco, that's quite a different story, so Bob says; some factories use mild, ripe tobacco, while others think that thick heavy tobacco is good enough. Bob knows tobacco and he tells me that it takes good tobacco—mild and ripe—to make a cigarette as good as CHESTERFIELD.

"You know how it is when a piece of fruit tastes just right—not raw or sharp or too ripe or tasteless—just pleasing and satisfying. Well, that's the way it is with CHESTERFIELD—they just suit me right down to the ground—they satisfy."

—And HIS sweetheart smokes 'em too!

Princess, Wooed by Proxy, Pawn of Political Fates

King Carol of Roumania Reported Courting
Maria Francesca, 17, Daughter of King Vic-

MYE MAGDA LUPESCU KING CAROL EX-QUEEN HELENE

PARIS—It is not enough that attractive 17-year-old Princess Maria Francesca is the pawn of political fates in matters of the heart, but she is being subjected to conditions of a romance of convenience which no other normal and "free" girl of her years would countenance.

For, according to authoritative reports in this city which sees all, hears all and does all, the youthful, dark-haired daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy is being courted not only by a man in whom she probably has not the slightest interest as a husband, but for him by proxy.

Girls, and presumably they are too numerous even to hazard a guess as to their total, who have sighed for the romantic aura which is popularly supposed to encircle the heads of princesses of the blood royal, might find such an imaginary halo a crown of thorns if they were forced to change places with Princess Maria Francesca.

Apparently, if widespread reports are true, this royal miss is being led to a figurative slaughter as an innocent victim of Old World machinations. The suitor who deigns only to woo the Italian princess by special emissary, as another "matter of convenience," is the oft-publicized King of Rumania—Madcap Carol.

M. Manolescu, governor of the National Bank of Rumania and close friend of King Carol, has been entrusted with the delicate task of winning the favor of Princess Maria Francesca to a marital union with the royal scapegoat of Europe. If the proxy love-maker successfully presses his monarch's suit and convinces the pretty princess of Carol's kingly and husbandly possibilities, the nuptials are rumored for October.

Rather a short time for even a princess to make up her mind about her future mate, supposedly for life, but, of course, everybody knows that such unfortunate girls as Maria Francesca have no mind to make up. At least when it comes to the all-important matter of international alliances via the altar.

There have been exceptions as there are exceptions to every rule, but by far the great majority of girls born to kings and queens have been "auctioned" off to the foreign rulers whose prestige and power is believed worth the marital "bargain."

It is not difficult to imagine that Princess Maria Francesca will look upon the left-handed courting of the King of the Rumanians with emotions too close to disgust to be complimentary to Carol. His escapades with Mme. Lupescu in Paris mark him as the type of man whose marriage vows are closely related to mere "scraps of paper."

King Carol's repeated difficulties with his former queen, Helene of Greece, are not exactly conducive to confidence in one's bally-hoed royal mate, but with Maria Francesca there is no choice. A valuable pawn in the political life of her country, she will be, no doubt, sacrificed to the great god of "convenience." Princess Maria, the youngest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, and one of the most attractive members of any European reigning house, also has been mentioned as a consort for Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Hungarian throne. This proposed match, however, has been cancelled, as Otto's chances of the kingship and therefore any political power which might be swung to Italy have been fading steadily.

The next few weeks may witness the formal announcement of the Princess Maria Francesca's betrothal to King Carol. There probably is no good reason for waiting even a few weeks as the purported nuptials are reportedly agreed upon now. But in order to avoid affording the Princess any embarrassment or inconvenience, this "matter of convenience" will be staged with dramatic aspects after Carol's proxy has had sufficient time to "win" the maidenly Maria Francesca.

ALLIANCE MINE EMPLOYEE DIES

Body is Found by Fellow Workers After Lunch Period

ALLIANCE, Sept. 11.—Funeral service for Charles Barcus, 51, coal miner, who was found dead Wednesday in the mine of the Acme Coal company north of the city, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Cassidy & Turkle Funeral home. Burial will be in the Alliance City cemetery.

Barcus was found lying in the mine by men with whom he was working and was carried to the top of the shaft, where firemen tried to revive him through artificial respiration.

Barcus and three other miners had entered the shaft a short time after eating lunch. Prior to the lunch hour, blasting had been done and a period of time was allowed, as is customary, for the fumes to disappear.

Barcus was born in Jefferson county and had lived in Alliance 17 years. He had been employed several years by the North Alliance Coal company.

Besides his widow, Minnie Pover Barcus, he is survived by three children by a former marriage, Pearl, Charles and Grant, all of Canton; six brothers, Harry of East Liverpool; George of Los Angeles, Calif.; Guy and Nelson, both of Tolland, Va.; and three sisters, Mrs. Cora Bone of Wellsburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Lulu Young of East Liverpool, and Mrs. Mary Diley of Harrisburg, Pa.

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather has a struggle to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation. After the estate of the Winsteads adjoins Oakleigh, Henry Winstead holds the Oakleigh mortgage. His only son, Sam, loves Sally but Sally is in love with Lowndes Jennings. Lowndes jilts Sally for the wealthy Gertrude Reinert. Sam asks Sally to marry him, although he knows she does not love him. Sally becomes Sam's wife in name only and Sam gives Oakleigh back to her as a wedding present. Sam goes abroad and tells Sally she can sue him for her freedom. After that leaves Sally, she discovers that Henry Winstead had not taken advantage of her grandfather as she believed, but had tried to save him in spite of himself. Henry takes the place of her grandfather in her affections. Henry hears about a needy family who had lately moved to the county.

—only the dulling touch of poverty and ignorance.

she graciously accompanied them to where the gate should have been. "O, father! What perfectly frightful people! The worst people I ever saw! And so ungrateful. Why should you do anything for such wretches?"

"But those poor brats really need the clothes, my dear. And we've got to see that they are sent to school," said Henry. "They are not responsible for their parents' poor little things. Something must be done for those children. That oldest child, if you noticed, isn't half bad. I imagine she might be a nice child if she were properly clothed and trained."

"And what is to be done for that terrible man?" she wondered. "I'll see Dixon about it. I think we can manage to find something for him to do," said Henry kindly. He expressed neither impatience nor disgust. He seemed to understand. Sally looked at him wonderingly. The Winsteads still had power to surprise her.

The children got the clothes they needed. Joe Dixon grumbled, but found Mr. Mears some unskilled labor. The shack had been repaired, some decencies added, and the oldest girl, Minta May, was presently sent to school, greatly to her parents' discontent. The younger children were to follow suit.

Sally went about with Henry on Sundays and such holidays as she had. She stuck to her post with Joe, and McFarland still helped her with the roses. No longer could she complain that her hands were empty, that she had no real work to do! But that one question persisted: What was she going to do about Sam?

Sally said to Henry one night at dinner. "When I was out driving this afternoon, I saw Minta May, father. She was crouched down on that bank by the lane—you'll remember it—crying as if her heart would break. I got out of the car and questioned her, but could get nothing out of her except that Paw was rampaging something fierce, and that he'd slapped her face and pulled her hair. She cried terribly, poor child."

"No offense, Mrs. Mears, no offense at all!" said Henry, good humoredly. "I didn't know your name until you told me. What do you require?"

"Me? Well, suh, whilst I'm at it, I might as well tell you I wantin' a caliker wrapper, 'n a whole shift 'n a pair o' shoes 'n stockin's."

While she was speaking, Paw came lounging up—dirty, idle, shiftless.

"Who's them?" he asked, jerking his thumb at the visitors.

"Hit's some rich folks what come to see us," "He," she pointed her finger at Henry—"aims to git some clo'es fur the children. All of 'em."

"You almin' to git them pore children some clo'es, Mister?" Paw addressed the visitor. Henry admitted that such was his intention.

"Well, suh, tant' no more'n right. You oughta, you're rich. I'm pore. I ain't got nothin' an' I can't git nothin' nohow."

"I am sorry. If you really want work, Mr. Mears, call at the Winstead Dairy and ask for Mr. Dixon. I think he can find you something to do."

"I knowed hit, Maw," said the poor man, resignedly. "You wuz thinkin' you wuz goin' to git some clo'es fer them children fer nothin'?" No, ma'am, you hain't. I got to sise for 'em! He's almin' to have my blood for 'em!"

"Not at all!" said Henry hastily. "But you want work, don't you?" "Sure I duz. But I hain't almin' to be driv, I hain't."

"You won't be driven," Henry told him patiently. "When yo' 'speck me to come?" asked Paw suspiciously. "You might come over tomorrow morning. Ask for Mr. Dixon."

"I'll come—but I hain't expectin' nothin' better'n workin' like a nigger," said Paw unpleasantly. Sally looked at him with curiosity. The type was new to her. She thought him the most disagreeable mortal she had ever seen.

I asked her if he'd been drinking, and she said if he wasn't now, he would be later on. I stopped by the office as I came back, and Joe told me the man hadn't been working for a week.

"Tomorrow's Saturday and you'll have a half a day's holiday. We'll drive over and see Mrs. Mears—shall we?"

"I'll be glad to. Somehow that poor child troubled me."

The next afternoon she got out her car, and the two drove off. The place was quite different. Sagging steps and broken shutters were repaired. Mrs. Mears, in a decent calico "wrapper," with shoes on and her hair neatly brushed and pinned, met them at the door. Her manner was more placating than of yore. Two or three of the children came out and greeted Miss Sally with shy friendliness. Another child, at the mother's bidding, brought chairs for the visitors.

After a while Sally asked for Minta May. She had heard such good reports of her at school, she said. The teacher had told her that Minta May "picked up" quickly, and was a very promising scholar. By the way, where was Minta May, now? They'd like to see her.

"She's about somewhere. I reckon," said Mrs. Mears apathetically, but made no motion to call the girl. "Couldn't we see Minta, Mrs. Mears?" Sally asked directly. "No'm, I don't reckon yo' can," said the woman.

"But why, in heaven's name?" asked both the visitors. "Because she's hidin' out from her Paw, that's why," said Mrs. Mears reluctantly, but ferociously. Her Paw's plum beside hisse! he is. He swears he'll kill her. Goda-mighty, he's plum ravin' wild. Paw is. And she won't tell nothin'—she's that obstin'! She wouldn't say nothin', even when he 'most slapped the face off'n her and yanked her hair till I had to pull him off her."

Sally and Henry looked at her with horrified eyes. What was the meaning of this?

But before they could speak, Paw himself appeared on the scene, his face red, his eyes red, his hair disheveled. And he carried a shotgun.

"What's that theer did devil doin' hys?" he shouted ferociously. Sally perceived, with terror and disgust, that he was very, very drunk. Indeed, "I tele you I'd have to pay for them clo'es he give the children with my blood, didn't I? Well, hain't I done it? He ruin't Minta May!" he howled.

Henry Winstead stared at the raving lunatic with distended eyes. What was he being accused of? Paw, dancing up and down, cursed him vilely.

"But—I assure you—" Henry began.

"I don't aim to let you be sure of nothin' but dyin'!" shrieked Mears. And before any of them could make a move to prevent it, he had flung the gun to his shoulder and fired.

And Henry, still looking at him astoundedly, slid forward. A red stain began to grow and spread on his white shirt front.

PROTEST STATE PAROLE PLANS

Scores Petition Officials Demanding Refusal of Grants

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS, Sept. 11. — Protesters by the score are raining down on the state parole board from Ohioans alarmed at the possibility of the almost immediate release, under provisions of the new "good behavior" law, of nearly 2,000 prisoners, it was learned here today.

Bombarding Secretary William Dore with letters and telegrams, hundreds have made outright requests to the board, asking that it refuse to grant to certain prisoners when their cases come up for consideration on Sept. 22.

Not Deserving, Claim Declaring the crime records of many of the offenders show they do not deserve the freedom which they believed was assured them for good conduct in prison in the new law, prosecuting attorneys and persons whom prisoners are alleged to have wronged have begged the board to exercise extreme caution.

Specific prisoners are singled out in most of the protest letters which exhort the board to deny the desired liberty because, they charge, the prisoners are "dangerous to society". In many cases the objections allege that the prisoners will return to freedom and again take up their old occupations.

The letters and telegrams are believed to be particularly numerous at this time because the legislature in its "good behavior" act, made 1680 at the Ohio penitentiary and 200 at the London prison farm eligible for parole hearings this month.

Parole hearings also await 700 at the Mansfield reformatory and 300 at the Marysville reformatory for women, boosting the total to 2,880.

Prisoner's Record Is Issue Although past criminal records will be considered, the principal issue to be studied by the parole as to whether it should allow the reduction in term for good conduct, will be the prisoner's record during his incarceration, according to Dore.

Since the state law instructs the board to proceed in that fashion, most of the letters and telegrams regarding past offenses of the prisoner will carry little weight, it was said.

Dore said the board hopes to dispose of most of its 2,880 cases in two months.

The new law providing for "good time" reductions became effective Sept. 1 but the board was compelled to delay action until after three weeks' notice had been served upon prosecutors and trial judges.

Alky on Big Business Scale

One of the biggest illicit alcohol distilleries yet uncovered by Prohibition agents was raided near Chicago the other day. The "alky" cookers were using the abandoned factory (upper) which has its own railroad siding. Lower shows a federal agent with some of the stock of corn sugar used in the making of the alcohol. It is estimated that the plant produced 5,000 gallons per day. Equipment valued at $175,000 was confiscated or destroyed by the raiders.

GALLIPOLIS O.—A forced landing in a field caused Dr. Charles E. Holzer flying surgeon of Gallipolis, to go to a hospital for treatment, but it was through no fault of his airplane. A barley beard zipped into the physician's face and lodged in his throat. An infection resulted. Dr. Holzer went to John Hopkins Baltimore, for treatment.

LOVELAND, Colo.—Field day for snakes on the Frank Trindle ranch southeast of Loveland was fatal for 32 of the reptiles. Trindle, a farmer, was loading hay in a field and began to notice snakes under the shocks. He killed them as fast as he saw them and, when the hay was loaded, counted 32.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Buying "Imported" Labels or Quality?

"This drapery is imported," said Edith. And because it is imported she has paid a price that made her guests gasp. Which is what she intended! The material was handsome, true, but the price was extremely high, considering what one can get for the money in domestic products.

The fiction about the superiority of everything labeled "imported" is taking a long time to die. For the word imported isn't necessarily a guarantee of superiority. All that the word means is that the article has been produced abroad. Lots of inexpensive articles come from the other side—the ten cent stores are full of them. Some are fine value for the money. Some are shoddy. Shiploads of stuff come from foreign countries that are cheaply made, labor costing less in those places. However, these articles are properly marked imported.

Are They Really Better? It's therefore the better part of discretion to ask "Why?" before one pays heavily for an article with a foreign label. If it is the sort of thing that actually is made better abroad than in our own country, it may be worth the difference in price.

Travelers come back with fixed notions especially in matters of food and drink, and very often they are quite right. On the other hand, some shopping around in the large markets may disclose American-made products every bit as good, and at lower price.

Of course, we can't compete in American markets with the pleasant liquids so easily obtained abroad. And specialties like Strassburg pate de foie gras, or Stilton cheese, or Russian caviar, or French truffles, are simply unavailable in this country. These things are so indigenous to their present source of supply that there is no competition. The method of preparing the pate is an old Strassburg habit. We have neither the tradition, the geese nor is it likely that the American poultry raisers would take kindly to the idea.

Some Real Reasons Sometimes it is the particular conditions of the country that contribute choice flavor to a certain food. For example, the ingredients and method of making Roquefort cheese could easily be reproduced in this country. But the certain something that distinguishes the imported from the domestic variety, and which makes it worth the difference in price to the epicure is the ripening process. The town of Roquefort happens to have in its vicinity many natural caverns through which flows a regular current of moist air. In these caverns the cheese is ripened, and if the particular tang of Roquefort cheese is desired the imported is a type readily recognized.

When it comes to mushrooms, most epicures will admit the superior flavor of domestic fresh mushrooms to the canned variety which comes from France. But there is on the other hand, the dried mushroom, which comes from Russia and from Italy, and although its texture is poor when cooked the flavor is marvelous.

LAKEVIEW, Ore.—Summer Lake was literally blown away recently when a strong wind swept over Lake county. Reduced to a shallow sheet of water by drought, the lake vanished when the water was blown on the exposed bed and immediately sank from sight.
